Good Morning and welcome to BBC news.

We are live in the studio. What a night it has been for the Iron Man. He has saved us all!

In Australia, Bob has the details of what turned out to be an extraordinary day.

Last night, there was an extraordinary battle and the smell from the fire is still in the air. The battlefield right behind me is still smoking. The people of the earth have been watching the amazing battle from all the countries. It had been a terrific sight for the people of the earth who saw that the Iron Man won. Today we can rely on the Iron Man. Thanks to his bravery.

The Iron Man felt very proud when he defeated the space-bat-angel-dragon and saved lots of people in Australia and the cities, towns and countryside. When asked if the Iron Man had felt nervous when he saw how big the dragon was, he replied that he felt petrified when he saw the Space-bat-angel-dragon because it could crush him.

The news is whizzing round the earth like flying bullets.

The Iron Man has had a great transformation, from enemy to world hero. Now, you might hear some music, but do not worry, it is from the Space-bat-angel-dragon. He plays the Music of the Spheres to bring peace to earth.
