

The Same but Different

We are all different that's plain to see.
I don't look like you and you don't look like me.
We all come from different places.
We have different hair; we have different faces.
We eat different food; our clothes aren't the same.
Even our Gods have a different name.
But we are all humans who share the same air.
We are all humans who love and who care.
We may be different from one another,
But as children of the earth, we are sister and brother.
Hold out your hand and I'll help you out,
As you would for me, of that there's no doubt.
Can you imagine if we all stood together?
Hand in hand across the nations, forever and ever.
No more discrimination, bigotry or hate,
And no more wars, that would be great.
So if you see someone who does not look like you,
Remember that you don't look like them too.
Give them a smile, ask them their name,
We may all look different but inside we're the same.
